

Pass the Blessing, Please

You have probably been richly blessed by the people in your small group. Now is the time to tell them how they have blessed you.

You can use this Heart-Warmer in two different ways. First, you can go around the circle and take turns telling the person on your right or left how they have blessed your life. You can also go around the circle and take turns letting each person share how each of the other group members has blessed them. The second option might be a good choice for a group that is ending a covenant or ending their group completely.
