

ACCOUNTABILITY

Accountability involves being honest about your struggles with sin.

No one is perfect. One of my weaknesses is... Share something about yourself that you know isn't Christlike. Ask your friends here to help you by forgiving you when you mess up and encouraging you to grow closer to Jesus.

Accountability involves setting spiritual goals with a Christian friend.

Think about your faith five years into the future. What do you want it to be like? Share this goal with the group.

Accountability means encouraging friends to use their God-given gifts.

Quickly sketch what your spiritual gift is. When you've finished, show it to everybody and tell how God wants you to use your gift.

Accountability involves applying the Bible to your life.

Think back to the last message, youth group get-together, or Bible study you attended. Tell the main thing you learned from that time, and explain how you're going to apply it to your life.

Accountability requires relying on other Christians to help you

With another player, do a "wheelbarrow" race across the room & back as fast as you can

Accountability means others check upon how you're doing spiritually

Do you struggle not to skip time with God, disrespect your parents, or be impatient with your siblings? Tell about a persistent sin or struggle you're dealing with, and give your friends here permission to "check up on" you.

Accountability involves praying together

lead the group in a short time of prayer for each person's spiritual growth
"lord help us to keep growing closer to you"

Accountability partners teach each other about God

do your best impression of your priest giving a sermon

Accountability involves following the example of other mature Christians

Who in this group has been a source of encouragement, inspiration or accountability in your faith? thank them.

Accountability partners study about their faith together

what is your favorite thing about being Catholic? your favorite bible story?

Accountability partners know it is OK to be idiots in front of each other

Raise & lower your eyebrows as many times as you can for 30 seconds straight

Accountability involves seeing the best in other people & helping them

grow to be more like Jesus

Tell everyone 1 great thing you see in each of their lives & why they inspire you
