

EASTER CROSSWORD

Here is a crossword puzzle that will test a group's knowledge of the events leading up to Easter. It can be printed up and done individually, or it can be done as a group game.

Instruction (When done as a group game):

Divide the group into two teams. Teams may elect, or be assigned, to go either "across" or "down." There are an equal number of clues, and it is doubtful that there would be any advantage to being either "across" or "down." There are two, possibly three, rounds in the game. During round one, each team should get a clue (in order) to a word in their section of the puzzle, and will get 100 points for each correct answer. The questions (clues) can be given to individuals on the teams, or to the entire team, whichever you decide. Once the answer is given, it cannot be changed, but wrong answers are not written in the puzzle. Alternate questions between the "across" and "down" teams until you have gone through the entire puzzle one time.

During round two, the missed clues are given again in the same fashion, only this time correct answers are worth 50 points. If there are still empty spaces on the puzzle, then go ahead with round three, awarding 25 points for correct answers this time. Scripture references and Bibles may be provided during this final round.

A good way to conduct the game would be to make a large poster of the puzzle that could be seen by everyone, or make an overhead transparency of it. Do not give the teams the list of clues in advance.
