

Everyday Blessings

Have everyone in your group think about the person on their left. Choose an everyday object that reminds you of a special quality possessed by that person. You might choose a lightbulb because that person lights up the room, or you might choose a paper clip because that person holds the group together. Use one of the examples shown below or come up with your own ideas.

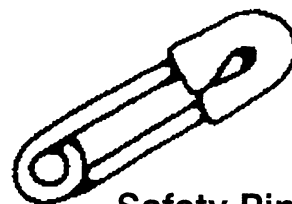

When everyone is ready, tell your person what you selected and why it reminds you of them.
