LOVE STATEMENTS

- Our love began as a friendship, then took root and grew into something deeper.
- Our relationship developed over time.
- Sure, he or she has faults. But I understand and accept those faults.
- Our love gives me strength and brings out the best in both of us.
- I'm warmed by his or her presence even when we're apart, because I'm secure in our love and I trust him or her completely.
  - I believe our love will grow even if we go to separate places after high school.
  - We enjoy being together around other people as well as being alone with each other.
  - I encourage my boyfriend or girlfriend to spend time with his or her friends.
  - When we're alone, we enjoy talking.
  - I'm happy when he or she is successful at something because I respect him or her.
  - We give each other private time and space.
  - We trust each other to keep our talks confidential.
  - I want what's best for our relationship, even if I don't always get my way.
- Our love has made me feel better about myself, my schoolwork and my family.
- We enjoy doing little things for each other, without expecting anything in return, just because we're in love.

INFATUATION STATEMENTS

- When we first met, I wanted him or her to be mine.
- When we're apart, I'm afraid he or she might find someone else.
- I'm excited about our relationship, but deep inside I feel alone and insecure.
- They say that everyone has faults, but everything about my boyfriend or girlfriend is perfect.
- I want to get married now so I won't lose him or her.
- We find it difficult to be together unless we know it will end in intimacy.
- We never disagree on anything, because we're in love.
- Having sex will make our relationship stronger and guarantee that we'll stay together.
- I know we're in love, but I'd rather not examine the reasons too closely.
- I get jealous when he or she spends time with his or her friends rather than me.
- When we're alone together, we don't talk much because we're too busy "making out."
- I don't let him or her see the real me because I'm afraid he or she won't like me.
- When he or she is successful at something, I feel threatened and jealous of all the attention.
- We spend every spare minute together because time apart is wasted time.
- Our love is so overpowering that I don't have time to bother with my schoolwork or my family.
