

BETRAYED

My Dear Child,

To be betrayed by someone you trusted is one of the lowest experiences. It is something I know very well.

In my earthly life I too was betrayed.

And even now many people who say they are my friends betray me.

Just know that all human beings are capable of betrayal.

The only one you can be sure will never stab you in the back is Me.

So put your faith in me and not in human beings. I'm not saying to never trust anybody; just know that things will happen. My grace is there for you to forgive them; which is not saying that what they did was OK.

It WASN'T. You're just saying that you will let go of resentment and let ME take care of them.

Pray- so that I can guide you about how to handle this betrayal.

Sometimes it will help you to realize someone is not worthy of your trust and let them go. That is a good lesson to learn. Sometimes you should ask my help to give the person another chance to earn your trust back. I will always show you what to do.

May the hurt in your heart from this betrayal be healed with all my love.

I love you,

Jesus