

DISAPPOINTED

My Dear Child,

I'm sorry that something has happened to you and you are feeling disappointed. Whether you are disappointed in yourself, someone else, or just in how a particular situation has turned out, disappointment is a part of earthly life.

Remember that I am supporting you and I know what you need and what is best. So please try to remember to trust in me, that I will turn all sadness and disappointment into something better. Pray for patience and flexibility.

Know that I am good all the time and because things did not go the way you wanted, does not mean the good you wish for will not happen.

Remember that I answer all your prayers. The answer might be “yes” to what you have hoped and asked for. It might be “not now” . The third possible answer is “Trust me, I have something better in mind.”

Remember that my ways are not your ways and I see more and further than you ever could.

Trust in my love for you,
Your dad, Almighty God
