

All I need to know about life I learned from my goldfish

■ Always ask for a room with a view. ■ Fishing for compliments keeps you swimming in circles. ■ When you live in a glass house, you should never swim naked. ■ It's best to eat before the food gets soggy. ■ Objects appearing outside your world are usually closer than they appear. ■ If you have nothing to say, just blow bubbles. ■ Never bite the hand that changes the water. ■ It pays to be paranoid...everyone is watching you. ■ There's no need to hurry. You're already where you're supposed to be. ■ Always remember: As you swim through life, you weigh less in water!
