

I'VE LEARNED THAT

I've learned that most of the things I worry about never happen.

I've learned that every great achievement was once considered impossible.

I've learned that you can't hide a piece of broccoli in a glass of milk. age 7

I've learned that if there were no problems there would be no opportunities.

I've learned that it doesn't cost anything to be nice.

I've learned that the important thing is not what others think of me but what I think of me.

I've learned that in every face-to-face encounter, regardless of how brief, we leave something behind.

I've learned that whenever I decide something with kindness, I usually make the right decision.

I've learned that if you spread the peas out on your plate, it looks like you ate more. age 6

I've learned that regardless of color or age, we all need about the same amount of love.

I've learned that education, experience, and memories are three things that no one can take away from you.

I've learned that motel mattresses are better on the side away from the phone.

I've learned that the simple things are often the most satisfying.

I've learned that if you want to cheer yourself up, you should try cheering up someone else.

I've learned that successful living is like playing a violin- it must be practiced daily.

I've learned that if you laugh and drink soda pop at the same time, it will come out of your nose. age 7

I've learned that a sunroof is worth the extra cost.

I've learned that optimists live longer than pessimists. That's why I'm an optimist. age 84

I've learned that happiness is like perfume: you can't give it away without getting a little on yourself.

I've learned that when someone hurts your feelings, it's unimportant unless you persist in remembering it.

I've learned that there's no elevator to success. You have to take the stairs.

I've learned that if you smile at people, they will almost always smile back.

I've learned that homemade Toll House cookies should be eaten while still warm.

I've learned that we grow only when we push ourselves beyond what we already know.

I've learned never to underestimate the potential and power of the human spirit.

I've learned that everyone has something to teach.
