

Fantasy Time

Here are four different fantasy situations. Choose one and share your response to the situation with the group. Before you share your responses, your group might choose to tell each other which fantasy you have chosen and let the group guess what your response might be before you share your answer.

1. You're sitting in your easy chair, dozing in front of the TV, when you hear the doorbell ring. You open the door to find the Publisher's Clearing House prize team. They hand you a bouquet of flowers, some balloons and a check for $5,000,000!

What are you going to do with the money?

2. You are walking through a lush forest. You head toward a clearing, discovering a bright meadow, and you see a man dressed in white, standing alone. You know instinctively that the person is an angel sent by God. He approaches you and says, "God has sent me to tell you his dreams for you."

What does he say?

3. You are surrounded by a huge choir. There is lightning, magnificent beasts and stately men and women in white robes. A melodious, powerful voice echoes above you. You look up to see an awesome figure on a throne. You are in heaven! The voice says to you, "Well done, my good and faithful servant! Let me tell you why I am so proud of you!"

What does he say?

4. You are sitting in a large hall, the perfect setting for an awards banquet. Several people have been previously nominated for a prestigious award. The winner is announced and the crowd erupts in thunderous applause. You are speechless. You have won!

What award did you win? What reasons did the emcee give for your winning? What will you say in your acceptance speech?
