

Show and Tell

Invite your students to bring a personal object that represents something they feel about life—trophies, books, pictures, mementoes, etc. After all explain what feelings lay behind the objects they brought, then permit questions. When the kids are finished asking and answering, ask, "What new things did you learn about those who shared? What did you learn about yourselves?"