

NEED SELF ESTEEM

My dear Child

Are you comparing yourself to others?

Know that I was thinking of you when I planned all of creation. You are a one of a kind creation. No one like ever existed before; does now or ever will. It is crazy for you to compare yourself to others, because they were not created to be like you and you were not created to be like them. Accept the unique way that you shine with my light. Don't compare anymore.

Think of this.

Would you get upset that a watch could not help you write a letter to a friend?

Would you be disappointed that a pen could not tell you what time it is? That would be crazy.

The pen is created to help you write the letter and the watch can tell you what time it is.

SO- love the life I have given you.

I made you the way that I did because I thought you would enjoy being this person. So it is really nuts for you to be wishing you were someone else.

pray deep to know in your heart what I am saying,

I am especially fond of you and cannot help but love you & that is why you should value, respect and enjoy your life.

Love always,

Your dad, Almighty God

PS- some people have no self esteem because they do not live right. If you do not follow my moral code there is no reason why you should have self esteem.