Remind your teenagers about the joy of a childlike faith.

In Matthew 18:3, Jesus tells us “unless you...become like little children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven.” After a message about having faith like a child, have a moment of celebration.

Beforehand, pick a spot in your church where you can stash a few hundred balloons. After the talk, have your teens head there and invite them to pop everything. (You can add coupons for coffee or candy bars into a few of the balloons, for extra fun.) The teens will turn into kids again as they jump and roll around. Take pictures and video, and you can relive the night you popped balloons for no reason but the fun of it.
