

Anatomy Quiz

TOPIC : The Church

SCRIPTURE : 1 Corinthians 12:12

SUPPLIES : paper, pens or pencils

This game appears to be a no-brainer, but it's a little more challenging than it seems. The object is to list ten body parts that have only three letters. (Crude or slang terms don't count.) Three of the parts begin with vowels, and the remaining seven begin with consonants.

Have youth form teams. Give each team paper and pens or pencils, and see which team can come up with the correct answers the fastest! Try it yourself before you peek at the answers in the margin.

ANSWERS TO ANATOMY QUIZ

The answers to this anatomy quiz
are eye, ear, lip,
jaw, gum, arm, leg,
hip, toe, and rib.

DISCUSSION

- What do all ten of these things have in common?
- How do these body parts function together?
- How are the body parts similar to the church?
- How does the church relate to the different body parts?
- If one part is missing, how does that affect the body? the church?
