

■ UNDER CONTROL

Occasionally, Randy smoked pot and drank a few beers at parties with his friends. He always stayed in control, and he never drove if he felt intoxicated. Randy believed he was acting responsibly and could quit pot and alcohol any time he wanted to. Many kids used drugs or drank before and after school. Randy only did it on weekends. He didn't see it as a problem. It never interfered with his school work, home life, job, or church.
