

Failure and the Power To Change

In the first can, fill in as many failures or experiences of failure that you can remember. You can also fill in how you may have failed others or how they in turn failed you. For each specific failure listed, think how that could have been an opportunity for success and fill that in the second can. Color each with a color that represents failure or new hope.

