

companies and whipped them into shape. He floundered when another ailing company appeared to be too much out of shape. Got to know his wife and children during a sabbatical. Is now a personal advisor at Top Executive Care, an advisory company that focuses on leaders and their organizations.