

COUNT-OFF

Here's an easy way to keep track of our teenagers on trips.

Just assign each person a different number, and then whenever you check attendance at a bathroom or food break, just have the kids count off. It's faster than calling out names, and if no one calls out, say, #5, then you'll immediately know who's missing. (The hardest part is, of course, getting the kids to remember which number they are.)
