

friend? What's something you like about your family? What's one special thing about the person on your right?

To begin the game, form teams of six to eight, and have each team sit at a table. Give each team a pair of dice. The first player rolls the dice and answers either one of the questions that appear on the top of the dice. If one red triangle appears, all the kids must move to a new chair. If two red triangles appear, everyone must circle the table once and pass the chair they were in before finding a new seat. The dice always move to the next chair, so it's possible to avoid rolling the dice or it's possible to be always in control of the dice. Once kids notice that happening, there will be a mad rush for the same chair.
