

PROVERB SIMPLIFICATION EXERCISE

DIRECTIONS: Beneath each statement, write the more common hidden proverb that expresses the same meaning in simple language.

1. An ignoramus and his or her lucre are readily disjoined.
2. In the absence of the feline race, certain small rodents will give themselves up to various pleasurable pastimes.
3. A plethora of culinary specialists vitiate the liquid in which a variety of nutritional substances have been simmered.
4. Impetuous celerity engenders purposeless spoilage.
5. Illegal transgression offers no remuneration for its perpetrators.
6. A winged and feathered animal in the digital limb is as valuable as a duet in the shrubbery.
7. The warm-blooded class aves who is governed by promptitude can apprehend the small, elongated, and slender creeping animal.
8. Provide the privilege of enfranchisement, or I will feel that life is not worth living.
9. A condition characterized by tardiness is more desirable than one that is systematically marked by eternal absenteeism.