

STOMP

Here are a few new twists on the old game where you tie a balloon to each kid's ankle with some yarn and everyone tries to stomp on everyone else's balloon while keeping theirs' safe. Rather than play that in one room, use the entire building! You can also tie a balloon to each leg rather than just one. And finally, you can play at night with the lights out. Give each teenager a flashlight, and now it becomes about stealth rather than speed.
