

Boundary Breaking

For the leader: please arrange your participants in a close circle. Explain the activity as follows:

This is a LISTENING activity through which we hope to become closer to the members of our group. There is NO DISCUSSION. I, your leader, will give you a statement. You will please complete the statement in your own honest way. You may repeat answers of other members if that is your own answer too. If you need more time, I will come back to you after you "pass." Each time, I will start at a different part of the circle, and just continue around in order but only after giving you TIME TO THINK of your answer.

As you listen to the answer of each person, try to remember the answers and at the end of our time, I will give some statements about the group itself.

-
1. Someone I most admire (a male) is...
 2. Someone I most admire (a female) is...
 3. What I most wish for our senior class right now is...
 4. The biggest change I see in myself since I began high school is...
 5. The best advice I would give to a freshman beginning at HFA is...
 6. One word that describes my life so far is...
 7. The way I feel about graduation is...
 8. What I am most thankful for in life is...
 9. The career I think I may have in the future is...
 10. One word that describes the quality I most value in God is...
 11. The quality I most value in a friend is...
 12. The greatest challenge I have faced so far in my life is...
 13. What I most hope for in life is...
 14. A time I feel close to God is...
 15. One special memory I have from HFA so far is...
 16. What I hope to receive from my retreat today is...
 17. My greatest gift I can offer others is...
 18. What I need most from God at this time in my life is...
-

19. Which person did I learn most about in our group?
20. Which person's answers made me think the most?