

MOST

This icebreaker is a fast and easy way to discover more about your group members.

Someone starts by asking a simple “most” question, such as, “Who has the most siblings?” or “Who has been to the most continents?” Teenagers can offer their answers, and then whoever has the most whatever gets to ask the next question. This brings out the creativity in your teenagers, and is an easy way for you to learn more about them.