

Who Am I?

This is a super Jump Start for a large group. Prepare by writing names on the same number of cards as there are people in your group. These could be names of historical figures, local celebrities, athletes, literary characters or any well-known figure. Then tape these cards on everyone's back. When the leader says "Go!" everyone tries to figure out whose name is on their back by asking everyone else YES or NO questions. The first person to guess who they are is the winner.

After you have a winner, you can sort the group into smaller groups by organizing them according to categories: athletes, politicians, entertainers, literary characters, religious figures, commercial characters, children's characters, etc.
