50 PEOPLE, 1 QUESTION

For this idea, all you'll need is a screen that lets you play videos.

There are numerous YouTube clips called "50 People, 1 Question," where they ask 50 people one question. For instance, the London question was "If you could wake up anywhere tomorrow, where would it be?" The Austin question was, "What would you do if you lost everything?" You can use these questions and answers to spark discussions, or you can challenge your group to come up with and videotape their own questions.
