

LOVING IS FOR EVERYONE

ON FRIENDSHIP

*friendship doubles our joy and divides our grief

-a fortune is not always a friend, but a friend is always a fortune

-a friend is someone who leaves you with all your freedom, and yet helps you to be the best person you can be

-friendship is the comfort, the inexpressable comfort, of feeling safe with a person, having neither to weigh your thoughts nor measure your words, but pouring everything out just as it is, certain that a friendly hand will take and sift it- keep what is worth keeping, and with a breath of comfort blow the rest away

-we pitifully seek to convey to others the treasures of our heart, but they have not the power to accept them, and so we are lonely- side by side, but not together, unable to know our brothers and unknown by them

-we need to have people, who mean something to us; people to whom we can turn, knowing being with them is coming home

-among God's greatest gifts to us are the people who love us

-a friend is a push when you've stopped, a word when you're lonely, a guide when you're searching, a smile when you're sad, and a song when you're glad

-no one is the whole of themselves, their friends are the rest of them

-friendship is the only cement that will hold the world together

-no love, no friendship can ever cross our path without affecting us in some way forever

-a friend is someone who leaves you with all your freedom intact

-there are no strangers, only friends we haven't met yet.

-a friend is someone who knows all about you...but still likes you!

-a person is only complete when they have a true friend to understand them, to share all of their passions and sorrows with, and to stand by them throughout their life

-a friend is someone who knows you as you are, understands where you've been, accepts who you've become, and still gently invites you to grow

-the key to friendship lies in freedom- freedom to give and take, freedom to come and go, freedom to live and grow, and freedom to be all we can be

-all our lives we verbalize the agonizing human need for love, for friendship
