

Choices: Seniors Only Workshop

Read through these and choose one that you feel most comfortable discussing with your group.

Situation 1: You are in college and you have finals coming up. There is a big party down the road that all of your friends are going to. You haven't studied and this may be your last chance to. Your test is at 11:00 the next day. What do you do?

Situation 2: You and your girlfriend/boyfriend have been together for a long time. You have previously decided to wait for marriage to have sex. For some reason, (college, jobs, traveling, etc.) the two of you will be apart for months at a time. You love each other and are committed, but are unsure how to keep your relationship together. What do you do?

Situation 3: You go to a party on Saturday night and feel like sleeping in the next day. Do you get up and go to church or do you roll over and go to sleep? What if this is the fourth Sunday you have missed for this reason? What can you do to help jump start your commitment to church?

Situation 4: You don't know anyone your own age because you are either out of college and moved, or decided not to go and moved to a new area. You have had a rotten couple of months and your faith is in the dumps. What kinds of things can you do to revitalize yourself? What kind of prayer works best for you, now?

Situation 5: You are just starting college and have had an excellent faith life through Youth Ministry. You pride yourself on the good choices you have made so far. Your college roommate invites you to a party, since she/he knows that you don't know very many people. You decided to go, since you have nothing else to do. People are offering you beer and alcohol. A loud game of beer die is going on in the living room and people are having a great time playing A- - hole in kitchen. You don't know anyone. What do you do?

Situation 6: You are in a job where people are very free with what they say. Racial, sexual, religious, and other kinds of jokes are always being thrown around. Curses are used more than complements and people who are open about their faith often get looked down on, especially Catholics. What do you do?

Situation 7: Your life is busy. There is not time for anything because you are always on the run between all of the wonderful things you do. You rarely have time to take a deep breath, let alone take time to pray. You feel like your life is chaos and you don't know where to turn. What do you do?

Situation 8: You or your girlfriend has become pregnant. You are not ready to be married, and possibly a little afraid of commitment. What do you do?
